

Construction

Wooden McLaughlin's construction lawyers help developers, construction managers, contractors, subcontractors, lenders, and design professionals navigate the complexities of the construction process. Before a shovel ever breaks ground, we counsel clients on risk allocation and insurance coverage to maximize return and minimize risk. During construction, we provide practical advice on the many legal issues that may arise, from payment and scheduling issues, to mechanic's liens and project finance. When disputes occur, we help our clients develop the right resolution strategy, whether that may be careful negotiation, or aggressive litigation in federal or state courts across the country.

Our services include:

- Construction contract drafting and negotiation
- Design agreements
- Dispute resolution
- General construction counseling and advice
- Project finance and lender counseling
- Regulatory compliance and licensing
- Mechanic's lien filing and litigation
- Payment and performance bond claims and litigation
- Construction insurance issues
- Contract termination
- Delay, suspension, acceleration and disruption claims
- Differing site conditions claims
- Defective construction claims
- Environmental review and site cleanup
- Storm water and wetland issues
- Financial workouts and restructurings
- Land use and permitting

- Public project litigation

Attorneys

- Matthew M. Adolay
- James M. Boyers
- Thomas W. Dinwiddie
- Allison Wells Gritton
- Misha Rabinowitch

Related Articles

- Millis Published in Evansville Business Magazine
- Time's Up: For AIA Contract Forms
- Minimizing Risk: Preventing Mechanic's Liens on Construction Projects
- Wooden McLaughlin Welcomes New Associates