Representation of hospitals, physician practices and individual healthcare providers has always been an integral part of Wooden McLaughlin's healthcare practice. We represent healthcare clients in dispute resolution proceedings from arbitration to administrative and judicial litigation.

Our lawyers have represented hospitals and doctors in matters related to the organization and operation of medical staffs, the appointment and credentialing of healthcare professionals, peer review and corrective action proceedings. We have extensive litigation experience in matters such as physician recruitment, employment and employment termination. We are well-versed in disputes involving covenants not to compete and tortious interference with contracts.
